Washington—As President Coolidge enters his fourth year as the nation's chief executive, he is surrounded with much the same circumstances as have affected the political future of other presidents at the end of their first term.

The question is not "Does Mr. Coolidge deserve another nomination for the presidency?" Practically all leaders of the Republican party are agreed that just as Theodore Roosevelt at the end of his first term or Woodrow Wilson in 1916 had satisfied the party leaders, so has Mr. Coolidge made a record on which, if he could not win, certainly no other candidate could get any more electoral votes.

The real question, however, is altogether different from that which has faced other presidents. And it has a significance which is timely because the question is now being discussed and considered by party leaders instead of waiting for the few months preceding the national convention. The problem really is, "Will the American people permit a chief executive to administer their affairs for more than eight consecutive years?"

In August, 1926, which would be the middle of the next presidential campaign, a very much as is in this dispatch, but the president will then be entering on his sixth year at the same time that the public might be in process of answering the question of another four years.

BOGEY OF THIRD TERM

The question at that time will be "Shall an American president be permitted to enter into a tenth year of consecutive service?"

Judging by the economic situation of the country today the fact that a precedent is involved might carry little weight. The party leaders of America, both Democrats and Republicans, count far more on the prosperity issue than academic controversies on points in constitutional practice or unbroken tradition. Looking back to 1896, when the "sound money" parades for McKinley and the days of the "full dinner pail" in 1900; to the "peace and this time" by the Democrats in 1916—and to the battle-cry of "Let well enough alone" in 1924—there has been no mistaking the effect of a contented economic situation on the result at the polls.

If Mr. Coolidge were to be as fortunate in 1928 as he is today with an unprecedented prosperity, the third term would not alarm the party leaders. If, however, the situation is not as good as today, they will use third term bogey as a means of selecting another candidate.

Mr. Coolidge's minor differences will then rise up to plague him. His troubles with the tariff commission, and the federal trade commission, his contact with the shipping board problem, all furnish opportunities for political quarreling when the fair weather days have passed by and almost anything in the way of a flaw bulks as a large defect.

PLANS BIG TAX CUT

But Mr. Coolidge has a trump card to play and he will play it in January, 1928, when he will have asked Congress to make what some people predict may be the biggest cut in taxes since the war. Surpluses are being built up with that idea in mind. The Democrats are already agitating for tax reduction and may not permit Mr. Coolidge to postpone it till the session which begins in December, 1927, and runs through the winter of 1928. At present writing, the odds favor action early in 1928, so that in March, June and September the voters will be reminded of the tax cut.

All this the Republican leaders are debating now, for they too foresee exactly the situation that would confront them if they raised the third term obstacle in the face of an otherwise strong political background for Mr. Coolidge.

LENGLEN AS "PRO" CAN'T PLAY WITH U. S. TENNIS STARS

New York—(AP)—Suzanne Lenglen apparently is doomed to disappointment if she has any idea of opposing leading American women players when she comes here as a professional in the fall. None of the ranking American stars have any thought of leaving amateur ranks and Suzanne's "pro" status would automatically bar them from meeting the French woman otherwise.

Interviewed by the Associated Press, Mrs. Mallory, former national champion, declared she would not turn professional.

The national titleholder, Miss Helen Wills, as well as such other women stars as Miss Eleanor Goss, Miss Mary K. Browne and Miss Florence Ballou also made it clear they would not forsake amateur ranks. Miss Elizabeth Ryan, second ranking American player, declined to comment.

BOOTLEG GANG SUSPECTED OF DUAL MURDER

Revivalist and Choir Singer
Shot Down After Denouncing Rum Running

Morgantown, Ky.—(AP)—Members of an alleged bootlegging gang are being rounded up for questioning in connection with the sensational double murder Monday night of the Rev. W. A. Moss, an evangelist, and Mrs. Jerome Johnson, a choir singer during the progress of revival services.

As the strains of "When the roll is called up yonder I'll be there" floated through the little school house at Early, 12 miles northwest of here with the tune being carried by more than 1200 fathers, mothers and children of the neighborhood three shots rang out in quick succession and the itinerant revivalist and his choir leader standing next to him, fell dead, killed by the same bullet. A third person was wounded.

Late Tuesday three youths, alleged to be members of a group of moonshiners who feared and hated the revivalist, because he had denounced their activities, were jailed in Morgantown after being run down by posses which had scoured the nearby woods ever since the shooting. Mr. Moss and his choir leader were shot down after a warning had been received Monday by the minister that he would be killed. He insisted on holding his services despite that fact and was killed before the eyes of three deputies who had come to guard him.

SEARCHING PARTIES FIND MILWAUKEE BOY

Phillips, Wis.—(AP)—Frank Hanitz, 11 year old Milwaukee boy who was lost in a heavily wooded section near here for 24 hours, was found late Tuesday by searching parties organized and headed by woodsmen.

The boy had started out with berry pickers and had lost his way. He tramped through the woods, and found himself completely lost. Continuing to press onward the boy forced his way through a heavily tangled section, and when found was completely exhausted. He told his rescuers that he had been forced to lie down and sleep from time to time.

Morgan Partner Denies Statement About Stock

New York—(AP)—Thomas Cochran, partner of J. P. Morgan and Co. bound for Europe on the Olympic Wednesday radioed to the Morgan firm a repudiation of the alleged interview in which he was quoted as predicting an advance of 100 points in General Motors stock.

"In response to inquiries made of me by a ship news reporter upon my sailing from New York on a holiday," Mr. Cochran said, "I spoke with enthusiasm of the earnings, management and prospects of the General Motors corporation."

I authorized no statement of any kind as to the future price of the stock which obviously no one can foretell."

INSTALLS NEW SPEED PRESS, WIRE SERVICE

Three Typesetting Machines
Are Included in New Equipment

A program of expansion involving the expenditure of more than $50,000 has been undertaken by The Appleton Post-Crescent to give its subscribers a bigger and better newspaper and to keep pace with the growth of the community it serves. The principal items in this program are a new high speed printing press, three new typesetting machines, new stereotype equipment, a new editorial office, and an additional leased wire news service. It is expected the new machinery and the second leased wire service will be ready by Oct. 1.

Present facilities of the Post-Crescent no longer are adequate to give its readers the kind of paper the publishers want to print. There are few newspaper plants in cities the size of Appleton as completely equipped as the Post-Crescent is now and after the new machinery is installed the Post-Crescent will stand alone in the matter of equipment, as it does in circulation, among newspapers published in cities of 20,000 population. In fact, the plant will be better equipped than many newspapers in cities much larger than Appleton.

OUTGROW EQUIPMENT

When the present equipment was installed early in 1920 it was believed it would be adequate for a number of years but within a very few months it was necessary to install new typesetting machines and other costly equipment. Almost every year new machinery was placed in operation. As long as two years ago it became apparent that the present Goss printing press and stereotype equipment was inadequate. The large circulation of the Post-Crescent, over 13,000 daily, demands a faster press so that papers can be delivered earlier.

TEN TYPESSETTING MACHINES

Two of the three new typesetting machines were installed two weeks ago, and the third has been shipped and will be erected soon. The Post-Crescent will be equipped with a battery of ten machines.

RESCUE 3 CHILDREN TRAPPED BY FLAMES

Milwaukee—(AP)—Marvin Runnels, one year old Leroy Foley four and Marie Clemens, 12 years old were removed from a burning apartment house early Wednesday morning. Marvin and Leroy were unconscious when taken from the building, but are expected to recover.

The children were rescued by neighbors after the alarm was sounded. Those living in the lower flats were able to get out without difficulty but the children in the second story apartments were trapped. Joseph Ekstein a neighbor procured a ladder from a nearby house under construction and carried the children from the building.

Frank L. Smith Denies He Is Obligated By Help In Race

Successful Candidate Claims
Conduct Will Not Be Influenced by Contributor

Chicago—(AP)—Frank L. Smith struck back vigorously Wednesday at those who have assailed him on account of contributions made to his successful senatorial candidacy in the recent Illinois primary by Samuel Insull and other public utilities executives of the state.

In a statement filed with the senate campaign funds committee the chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission declared that at no time and under no circumstances had he obligated himself to any person, director or indirectly, on account of any assistance given to his campaign.

Smith asserted that from the start he and his campaign manager, Allen F. Moore of Monticello, Republican national committee man from Illinois has "a clear understanding about money."

"This understanding was that, under no circumstances was I to be put under any obligations whatever to anyone for contributions or other assistance," his statement said, "I have not violated that understanding at any time and I am firm in my belief that Mr. Moore has in no way violated it. I am just as sure of Mr. Moore as I am of myself in this regard."

Recalling that he was appointed a member and designated chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission in 1921, Smith stated that since that time he had considered every case in which he had participated "solely upon the evidence of record, without any show of favoritism or any abuse of power either in behalf or against any person or corporation which has been before that body for any purpose whatsoever."

"I became a member of the commission during the readjustment period which followed the world war," the statement added, "With but few exceptions every utility in the state had been given war-time increases in rates. I was one of those who sincerely believed that the best interests of the companies demanded that we get back to prewar prices as soon as consistently and economically possible."

Sanborn Eliminates Ken Dickinson In State Meet

Milwaukee—(AP)—Phil Sanborn, Maple Bluff, Madison, eliminated Ken Dickinson of the Butte des Morts and Riverview club, Appleton, defending champion, in the first round of the annual Wisconsin Amateur Golf association tournament Wednesday, one up, in one of the best matches of the tournament. Sanborn triumphed in a medal score of 71, one over par and the best of the tournament so far, to defeat the champion who had a 72.

Right on the heels of the defeat of the championship came the elimination of Morgan Manchester of Maple Bluff, who went out of the picture one down to an 18-year old public course player, John Verbos of Racine.

Both matches were the sort that make the followers of the game talk for weeks to come, and all four players pressed every advantage, the tide swinging back and forth until the last putt was dropped.

LAWYER SIFTS NEW ANGLE OF MURDER CASE

If Evidence Develops Present
Theories in Hall-Mills Slay-ing Will Be Upset

New York—(AP)—District Attorney Charles Dodd of Kings-co has started in Brooklyn an investigation into the Hall-Mills murder at Somerville, N. J., that will upset present theories if evidence develops along lines suggested. The body of the Rev. Edward Hall was examined at King's-co hospital in Brooklyn after the murder four years ago by Dr. Bernard Vaughan, who is now dead. Mr. Dodd has found in Dr. Vaughan's note a suggestion that rifle as well as pistol bullets were used in the slaying of Dr. Hall and Eleanor Mills the choir singer.

The New York Times says Wednesday it has learned that official records made at autopsies do not state the size of bullets used. Shells of 32 calibre bullets were found near the bodies, but it is pointed out that these may have been placed there to divert suspicion.

BLAME LIQUOR TRAFFIC FOR TWO KILLINGS

Chicago Police Confronted With Three Slaying Mysteries in 24 Hours

Chicago—(AP)—Finding of the body of an unidentified man trussed and weighed with stones in a suburban well gave police Wednesday their third murder mystery in 24 hours.

The body, found Tuesday night, apparently had been in the water two weeks. There were three bullet wounds in the head, leading to the police to believe that the man had been "taken for a ride" and slain as the result of some illicit alcohol traffic feud.

"Alcohol gang warfare also was blamed for the death of Joseph Sulvo in Chicago Heights, a suburban community, in which a dozen recent slayings have been recorded. Sulvo, reputed successor to a toppling bootleg throne in the suburb was slain by a volley from sawed off shotguns poured from a curtained automobile. A week ago Philip Piazza, millionaire roadhouse proprietor was assassinated in front of his own cafe in the same village. The third killing, that of Morris Mankowitz, wealthy teaming contractor, was laid at the door of labor troubles. Mankowitz was killed by a man who drove to the contractor's headquarters and fired point-blank at the victim.

MAY BUILD 2 NEW NAVAL ARSENALS

Ask Congress to Erect Huge Ammunition Depots on West and East Coasts

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—A new naval arsenal at least 100 miles square for the Pacific coast and a similar arsenal for the east coast and gulf sections will be established if congress follows the recommendations of the Naval court of inquiry into the disastrous explosion July 10 at the Lake Denmark, N. J. depot.

The findings which also recommended the repairing of Lake Denmark to accommodate such small explosives as may be stored there safely have been approved by acting Secretary Robinson, who announced that immediate steps would be taken to carry out the recommendations.

The court found that lightning alone was responsible for the explosion which caused 23 known deaths and injury to 32 other persons, with two marine corps privates still listed as missing.

THREE INJURED WHEN TRAIN PARTS ON BRIDGE

Auburn, Maine—(AP)—The Bar Harbor express from Washington and New York parted on a bridge structure Wednesday and two cars plunged down a 60 foot embankment; six left the rails but stayed erect, while the locomotive and an express car remained on the tracks. Three clerks on the mail car, which with a baggage car went down the steep embankment, were the only persons badly injured. Injuries to passengers were confined to minor bruises. It was reported the receiver hook excitedly but the wire was cut off.

MAY HEAD TEXAS

Claims Committee Has No

Concerning Senate Race

Chicago—(AP)—For a second time within a week the senate campaign funds committee and its authority challenged. This time it was Samuel Insull multimillionaire public utilities executives of Chicago, who declined on advice of counsel to tell of any contributions in the recent Illinois primary except those he made for the senatorial candidates.

In a formal statement prepared by his attorney, Insull declared the committee was without authority. Previous testimony has been that Insull contributed $10,000 to the Crowe-Barrett faction of the Republican party in Cook-co and a like amount to the rival Deenen group which supported Senator William M. McKimley, who was defeated for renomination by Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission. Senator Reed undertook to carry Insull over as long as possible, but the utilities executive steadily declined to go into anything he did not think related to the senatorial primary.

In the midst of the questioning, Insull took occasion to make a speech against the world court and entangling alliances. Chairman Reed sat calmly by his cigar and watching the senatorial primary.

Senator Reed informed Mr. Insull that it became the duty of the committee to report to the senate his refusal to answer questions and that the senate would take such action as it saw fit.

George F. Stafford of Monmouth, Ill., superintendent of the state anti-saloon league, telegraphed accepting Insull's position, and advising the committee that he would be on hand Thursday.

Another witness was S. F. Lowrie, secretary of the progressive party of Illinois, who appeared at his own request to deny that Insull had contributed a dollar to Parley P. Christensen, Progressive party candidate for the senate.

Copely, a former member of congress identified himself as a publisher explaining that he had sold out his holdings in the Western United Gas and Electric Co. and affiliated companies Jan. 25. He still holds an honorary position on the board.

The former congressman said the public utility serves about 100 towns in Jackson, Franklin, Williamson and Perry counties. The company also owns about 20 miles of interurban railroad and about 40 miles of city roads in Aurora and Elgin.

The witness said his stock was bought by A. E. Fitkin of New York and E. H. Rollins and Sons, but that he still has a "large holding of the underlying securities."

About 20 guests were in the lobby when three men entered and began shooting. After killing Munson his assailants removed his body in an automobile and deserted it several blocks away.

LINK MAN'S CONFESSION WITH FREIMUTH CASE

EX-CONVICT IS HELD IN SEATTLE FOR 14 MURDERS

Admits Killing Man Near Appleton Last Spring by Throwing Him Off Train

Possibility that the death of Herman Freimuth, Shiocton farmer who disappeared on the evening of May 16 and whose body was taken from the Wolf river nearly a week later, may be solved by the confession of Thomas Johnson, ex-convict who admits insanity, is being considered by authorities here.

Johnson, who surrendered Saturday to police at Seattle, Wash., said he killed a man near Appleton last spring by throwing him off a freight train. H. A. Fowler of Seattle, who claims to have been a fireman on the train, gave partial confirmation to the story, by telling Seattle police that he talked to Johnson about the details of the crime. Fowler declared he believed the statement to be true, according to a dispatch from the Associated Press.

Police Chief George T. Prim received a telegram Tuesday afternoon from authorities at Seattle asking for information. The message, however, stated that Johnson, who also confessed to 13 other murders and more than 100 robberies, declared that the Appleton murder was committed in the spring of 1925, in contradiction of the Associated Press dispatch.

NO OTHER RECORDS
Nothing in the police records for 1925 reveals even a possible substantiation of Johnson's confession. Detective Sergeant McGinnis searched the files of the Post-Crescent Tuesday afternoon without unearthing a possible clue.

There are many indications that Freimuth was murdered in the manner indicated by Johnson. A coroner's jury was influenced in its verdict of "death caused by wounds inflicted by hands of person or persons unknown" that cuts were found on the right side of the head and on the right cheek, and by the fact that no water was found in the lungs of Freimuth. Mr. Freimuth, too, was known to have earned considerable money on his person the night of his disappearance. He had paid accounts amounting to $90.30 after cashing a check for $100. No trace was found of the remainder of money, the wallet, or receipts.

A salesman stated to members of the Freimuth family and others that he met a tramp near Green Bay the Thursday after Mr. Freimuth's death, and that the tramp knew all details of the disappearance. This statement was not regarded as material at the time, and it was not taken as evidence at the inquest.

Freimuth started to walk home, it was thought, but he might have climbed on the freight train as it was passing. If he did, and was murdered either for his money or to satisfy the lust of a madman to kill, it must have been purely accidental that he was thrown from the railroad bridge near Shiocton, for if Johnson were the murderer he could hardly have known conditions, and would have thrown the body haphazardly out of the train.

MURDER NOT PROVED
On the other hand, it was never clearly proven that Freimuth was murdered. It was pointed out at the time that he might have stumbled on the railroad and, partially stunned, staggered to his feet and falling into the water. Striking an obstruction in the water, he might have been knocked unconscious. This would account for absence of water in his lungs.

Testimony before the coroner's jury indicated that Freimuth had been in company with a stranger in Shiocton during the evening of his death. Freimuth was in the LaFortune soft drink parlor, in company with others, when the stranger, whose hair was unusually long, entered and greeted Freimuth with "hello old pal" witnesses testified. The stranger was never identified.

Unless Johnson's confession solves the death of Freimuth, it is either false or he gave the wrong place as the scene of the murder. Chief Prim is considering the possibility that the murder was committed in Appleton, Minn., instead of this city.

The entire Cossack circus will be seen in the 101 Ranch performances.

PROSPEROUS KEWAUNEE-CO.

We wish to draw the attention of our pop-corn politicians, who are trying to convince the people, and particularly the farmers, that before they can lay up any of this world's goods and get a square deal they must overthrow established institutions, to conditions in Kewaunee-co. Kewaunee is entirely a rural county. It is inhabited mostly by the descendants of thrifty pioneers, who settled there to make good, and who have been making good for generations. As a result, practically every farm in Kewaunee-co is owned by the occupant. There is no farm tenantry in Kewaunee-co. Neither have the owners been forced to sell their property to mortgage holders.

In one year, from June 30, 1925, to July 1, 1926, the bank deposits of Kewaunee-co showed a gain of $700,000. The total of deposits on hand July 1, this year, was, in round figures, $8,100,000, which is pretty good for an agricultural community of 16,091 people, by the census of 1920. We should say offhand that this reflects a condition of prosperity excelled by very few communities in the country. These figures mean an average of $503.22 on deposit for every man, woman and child of Kewaunee-co.

Not every farmer in Kewaunee-co is of course prosperous. There have been failures among its farmers as there are failures among merchants, manufacturers and in all branches of industry, but on the whole agriculture in Kewaunee-co has been and continues to be prosperous, our politicians and agitators to the contrary notwithstanding. The reason why, obviously, is because the farmers of Kewaunee-co have tended to their business, saved wood and made good. They have not been led astray by blatant office-seekers, who promised to bring them rewards without effort. They have not laid down on the job expecting the state or these politicians to make prosperity for them. They have done it themselves.

Kewaunee-co is a fine example of thrift, resourcefulness, industry and initiative. It is paddling its own canoe. Will Mr. Blaine or Mr. Ekern or Mr. Reynolds tell us what is wrong with Kewaunee-co and in just what way it is suffering from the exploitation of predatory wealth?

WORLD COURT DEBATE

People of Wisconsin are now waiting to see if Governor Blaine will accept the invitation of the Richland County Fair association extended to him and Senator Lenroot to discuss at its annual meeting the world court. The Fair association offers to set aside a day particularly for this debate, to advertise it and guarantee an immense crowd. It would be made one of the main attractions of the fair, and of course its drawing possibilities are obvious. Nothing the fair could put on would be more popular with the people than this contest.

Senator Lenroot immediately accepted the invitation, but as yet Governor Blaine has not given his reply. The fact that this invitation comes from the Fair association and not from Mr. Lenroot takes it out of the class of "cheap challenges" that Blaine objected to originally, and which he would hardly have the temerity to apply to the Richland County Fair association, composed, as it is, of several thousand farmers. Furthermore, his original objections that it would be disturbing to a fair program, that it would compete with horse races, etc., are all met and cancelled by the Richland county invitation.

Mr. Blaine's answer, will determine whether he was side-stepping in the beginning and was afraid to meet Lenroot. It will tell whether he was resorting to subterfuges and make-shift excuses to avoid meeting the antagonist. Of course, as a matter of fact, that is exactly what he was doing. Governor Blaine is either unfamiliar with the world court, its protocol, etc., or he is purposely making misstatements to deceive the voters. He is not qualified to debate the world court with one who is qualified, as is Senator Lenroot. His deception or his ignorance, or both, would be made glaringly evident in a joint discussion of the question with Senator Lenroot.

That is why Mr. Blaine at the present time persists in his refusal to debate the world court with Mr. Lenroot. Doubtless he will find some excuse to escape the meeting, but he is in a tight place. Not to accept the Richland County Fair association's invitation will be tantamount to an admission that he is afraid of the senator and feels himself incompetent to discuss the world court on its merits. It can have no other significance, and its significance will not be lost upon the voters. Mr. Blaine has asserted that the world court is a major issue. He has been making wild statements about it and those who support it. It is no more than fair that he should be called to account for these statements. He should be willing to debate the issue with an opponent. Failure or refusal to do so is neither good sportsmanship nor an exhibition of that kind of courage the people like to see in a man in public life.

NEW RADIO FIELD

England will utilize the radio to cultivate a standardized pronunciation of English, it has been announced. A committee has been appointed which will adopt a uniform pronunciation to be used by all announcers of the British Broadcasting company. There are many peculiarities of dialect and pronunciation it is hoped may be overcome in this manner.

We, too, could profit by such a plan. Nationally, our English, as well as that of England, needs purifying. But even more than purifying in pronunciation, our English needs correction. As a nation, we misuse the language flagrantly. That does not mean that we have none who use correct and well spoken English, but it does mean that the majority of even our native stock use careless, if not incorrect, speech.

There is no other agency by which correct speech could be brought simultaneously to so great a number of persons. Radio reaches everyone today, and, without waiting for the results of the English experiment, it might be well to appoint a commission to confer with the British commission to the end that these two great English speaking nations, with a common language, may be brought to speak it with uniformity of pronunciation and greater correctness.

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

You can tell what your luck's gonna be, when you start out to fish for a day. At guessing your catch you are always at sea. Fishin's fun—that's what makes it that way.

You fix up yer lines and you take special note that yer tackle's as tackle should be. You dish out yer coin when yer hirin' a boat and you paddle yer way out to sea.

The anchor is thrown out at some place that's right, and you fix up yer hook with a worm. An hour or so passes with nary a bite, but you sit there, an' sit there, an' squirm.

At last, Comes a nibble. You jump with a grin. By gosh, you were dern near asleep. You give one good jerk, an' you pull the fish in. Ye gods! It's too little to keep.

You don't catch a thing but you're at it again on the morrow, and say, is that pluck? Of course not! It's merely a way with all men; the victims of fisherman's luck.

WET BORIC ACID DRESSING

Cuts, scratches, bites, burns, abrasions, punctures and the like, decorations for valor in vacation, are particularly appropriate introductions to "blood poisoning" or septicemia. Every such trifling or minor wound should be immediately swabbed or painted with tincture of iodine. This will smart considerably for a moment. So will any other antiseptic, germicide or disinfectant worth using. As soon as the iodine has dried the little wound should be covered with a suitable protective dressing, such as a coating of flexible collodion if the wound does not ooze or bleed; or a carefully applied piece of zinc oxide adhesive plaster which has not been touched by fingers where it will come in contact with the wound. Or if the wound is a large one, which bleeds, or oozes, cover it with a pad of sterile gauze, never cotton, thickly spread with sterile petrolatum or other sterile neutral ointment with a thin layer of cotton over it and a bandage.

In nearly all cases—fireworks and toy pistol wounds excepted—the infection of minor wounds occurs from subsequent contact with some surface which is not surgically clean. Fireworks or toy pistol wounds may be infected from the powder, cloth or paper or street dirt which enters the wound at the time of the accident, and in some instances this infection is far worse than mere blood poisoning or septicemia; it is tetanus, "lockjaw." Tetanus infection may occur without any indication of poisoning or inflammation about the wound.

A little boy had a trifling burn from firecrackers. This little boy paid no attention to his burn. Nothing came of it. But when his father was cautioned about it, he just thought of it as a trifling thing and said he thought the boy's mother usually did put some peroxide on it. That is just make believe first aid. Peroxide isn't worth a hoot as a disinfectant or antiseptic. Particularly inefficient is this spectacular foam produced against lockjaw or tetanus infection. Peroxide, by its ebullition or foaming when it comes in contact with blood or blood serum, may as well drive any infection more deeply into the wound. Peroxide is a delusion and a snare for first aid work.

Not that tincture of iodine itself is adequate to prevent possible tetanus infection. The surgeons think it isn't. But there is nothing better for the purpose, that is, nothing which anyone except the physician or surgeon may safely employ. The routine first aid application of iodine, in my opinion, is enough in any case. It is a fireworks wound, the attention of the physician should be sought as well. The immediate application of iodine seems to be the best insurance against ordinary septicemia.

When a minor wound does become infected the victim knows about it. There is pain, redness, swelling; after a few hours perhaps red streaks running up the arm or leg, with tender "kernels" in the armpit or groin; then feverishness, headache, chilliness or chill. That's septicemia, or "blood poisoning."

As soon as ever the little wound begins to feel "sore," it seems to be getting inflamed it is well to begin soaking the extremity in hot water containing a teaspoonful of boric acid to the pint. And when you tire of the soaking, then apply to the wound and the extremity large dressings of gauze soaked with the same solution. Meanwhile, of course, call a physician.

City Attorney Joseph Lefevre claimed that the out of town automobile dealer selling second hand cars on the vacant lot alongside of Lange grocery store was a transient merchant in his opinion and could not do business in this city until he had taken out a license in compliance with state law and the local city ordinances. MR. WILLIAM THRUSH

In a recent statement Mr. William Thrush, Orion, Mich., R. R. 1, a prominent 62 year old farmer made this statement:

"My kidneys were in bad shape and called me up four or more times every night. I was a sufferer from backache, was very nervous and it seemed to take dynamite to make my bowels move. I was so constipated, I had very little appetite but the little I did eat caused me great suffering because it always soured and formed gas. The medicine I took was like so much water and I grew sick and tired of taking it."

"I started on Drecto three weeks ago and in this short time my condition has improved so that my old troubles are scarcely noticeable. I am feeling better in every way and my kidneys show every evidence of being in fine condition for I can now sleep all night thru without getting up once and the backache is almost gone. My bowels move regularly every day and I have a wonderful appetite. Nothing I eat causes me any trouble from indigestion or gas. Drecto has changed my mind about medicines and I am willing to recommend it to my dearest friend."

Mr. W. V. Martin, the well-known expert from the Drecto Laboratories now at Schlitz Bros. downtown drug store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Drecto for best results. Go to see him.

NEW YORK LIVES
BEAT HIGH LIVESSoftball Game Results in
Onesided Victory by 9 to 0
Score

Several to Post-Crescent
New London—Donner's High Lives were white washed by the New York Lives, 9-0, Monday night in a softball league game. Donke for the High Lives was wild, issuing four passes in one inning. Pooley, the opposing pitcher, hurled a fine game. His infield and outfield steamed him in the punches and though the High Lives got men on bases, they were unable to score.

On Tuesday night the Undertakers defeated the Soda Grills 4-0 in a fast game. The Soda Grills lineup was considerably strengthened and Manager Meiklejohn states that in a short time he will have the best team in the league. For the victors, Duffy and Frame in the outfield made several nice catches, while Angieworm Wolfraht was the whole infield. All of the teams will be in action Thursday and Friday of this week. The schedule has been changed so that each team plays twice instead of once a week.

MRS. DENGLE BACK

New London—"Wisconsin is a good old state after all," stated Mrs. Grace Dengle, who after two months spent in the west returned to her home here Friday. "But the west is wonderful!" she added, "especially the mountains, the sea and the ships!"

Grocer Starving To Death

"I had been sick nearly 20 years with stomach trouble and was slowly starving to death as everything I ate caused terrible gas and pain and my food did not digest. I was reduced to 115 pounds. A friend advised me to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy about 4 months ago, which I did and now weigh 151 lbs. and can eat anything. I am very thankful for MAYR'S." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at all druggists. adv.

STAGE AND SCREEN

"MILLION DOLLAR" CAST IN "LADY OF THE HAREM"

Not so long ago, Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of Paramount, announced the entire cast that take part in "The Lady of the Harem," huge spectacle production which Raoul Walsh directed, and which arrives at the Fischers Appleton on Sunday.

The featured male roles are enacted by Ernest Torrence and William Collier Jr. The principal feminine players are Greta Nissen and Louise Fazenda.

Especially strong is the supporting company, which includes such names as Andre de Branger, Chester Conklin, Sojin, Frank Leigh, Andre Lany, Snitz Edwards, Noble Johnson, Daniel Markeno, Christian Frank, Lev White and others.

The "Lady of the Harem," it is reported, is the year's largest and most dramatic spectacular production. The story was adapted from a famous stage production, "Hassan."

Because of the production's magnitude, an unusual length of time was invested in the selection of the main players.

The "Lady of the Harem" takes place in Khorasan, Persia. The time is during the days of the Arabian Nights. Exterior scenes, using three thousand people, were taken in and around a palace almost half a mile wide and one hundred feet high. One of the many tremendous scenes is the swimming of a wide river by thousands of beggars who go to the rescue of William Collier Jr. and Great Nissen, imprisoned by the oppressive Sultan.

Torrence Collier and Greta Nissen made their most recent triumphs playing together in "The Wanderer." Louise Fazenda will be remembered for her many outstanding comedy successes.

Six months went into preliminary preparations for the picture.

"GOLDEN COCOON"

A NEW ROMANCE Helene Chadwick and Huntly Gordon in Warner Bros. Picture

In the lives of most men and women romance plays a very important role. In the lives of most women and some men, romance is of paramount importance and holds the centre of their mental stage. A picture which combines both these interests is "The Golden Cocoon," a Warner Bros. classic of the screen, at the Elite Theatre, Thursday and Friday.

The story is a pictureization of the novel by Ruth Cross, dealing with the problems and adventures of a young girl who comes to a large college from her small country town, where she finds happiness after much suffering and humiliation, only to be faced with the necessity of sacrificing it all for her husband.

Helene Chadwick has the leading role of Mollie Shannon, the ambitious and brilliant "young" heroine who shows the strength of a woman's devotion to the man she loves. Huntly Gordon plays the husband, a man who seems made to comfort and protect all womankind; while Richard Tucker shares villainous honors with Frank Campbell.

Others in the cast are Margaret Seddon, Carrie Clark Ward, Charles McHugh and Violet Kane; under the capable direction of Millard Webb. The well-known scenario team of Hope Loring and Louis Lighton prepared the scenario, and Byron Haskins was the photographer.

LIFE IN HOLLYWOOD

Theatre goes will find considerable novelty in the entertainment, played at the New Bijou today and Thursday when "The Part Time Wife" is scheduled to be shown. This picture is a romance of the movies. A story based on the not uncommon situation of what happens when an ordinary man marries a famous movie star. At first the glamour of his wife's fame dazzles him. Then comes a reaction, the man resents being known by his wife's name. Their modes of living, amusements and friends all are different. The ship of matrimony seems to be headed for the rocks of the divorce court. You have seen it happen time and again. In this case however there is a different solution. The wife works out an arrangement on a "part-time" basis. Just how and what this proposition is forms the theme of the story. To the average photoplay patron the making of motion pictures is surounded by considerable glamour and mystery. "The Part Time Wife" having as its locale the inside of a movie studio in Hollywood some very novel angles are presented. The spectator is taken behind the scenes and in a movie he will see a movie being made. The intricate technical and scenic equipment is shown in detail and many revelations of picture making are promised in this picture.

Alice Calhoun is featured in the principal role of Doris Fuller, a famous screen star while Robert Ellis is leading man in the part of Kenneth Scott, the newspaper man whom she marries. Freeman Woods is seen as the "movie" leading man with Charles Reade as the "director."

BADGER STATE DROPS BEHIND IN INDUSTRIES

Former Head of Wisconsin
Manufacturers' Association Speaks Here

"Wisconsin was one of two states in the union to drop behind industrial activity and one of eight which paid less federal tax in 1925. Carl A. Johnson, president of the Grisholt Machine Co., Madison, told members of the Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, Y's Mens clubs and the chamber of commerce at a banquet sponsored by the Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon. Wisconsin's Industrial Tax Problem was the subject of his talk. Mr. Johnson was president of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association for the seven years, retiring last year.

"Wisconsin has lost tremendously because of a lack of cooperation that there should have been among all of its people, if the best interests of all are to be served," he said. "It is high time that the people of Wisconsin decide that state government is to be a government of the people by the people and for the people." Instead of a government of the people, by a few of the people and for a few of the people," said Mr. Johnson.

There are many unscrupulous men in Wisconsin, according to Mr. Johnson, who do not hesitate to lie about individuals or businesses, if to do so will mean their own advancement politically. He cited numerous cases of factories and businesses which because of the extreme industrial tax in Wisconsin, have moved their offices from this state. He also stated that in the past few years there were no instances of new companies locating in Wisconsin, because of this same fact.

"If there had been a deliberate attempt to throttle industry in Wisconsin with its consequent ill effects on the farmer, the banker, the man with a trade and the man without one, the professional man, the merchant and industry itself, the attempt could not have been much more successful than it has been of late," Mr. Johnson said.

BUSINESS CAUSES GROWTH

He traced the development of the state of Wisconsin from early times and showed how the manufacturer had in nearly every case, caused the growth of a community. Other businesses, professional men and settlers always followed industry, he said. Therefore, if the state is to continue to make progress, it must produce and it must produce in competition with other states. In order to do so, conditions enabling manufacturers to meet competition must be readjusted in our state, if we wish to continue to develop.

"Along with other conditions which must be remedied is the problem of reforestation," he said. Due to lack of proper provision for reforestation, the time is not far off, when the paper and lumber industries will not have the relative importance they did. Provision should therefore be made, in fact should long since have been made, to provide for this contingency. In the way of a greater possible development along with other industrial lines.

"The interests of all people are largely dependent upon the prosperity of the producers, because it is largely through their efforts that the money necessary to provide us with our public institutions, our churches, our schools and our good roads and all things which enable us to enjoy the comforts of life as it is carried on today, is brought into the state.

"While Wisconsin has been damaged, I am a firm believer in the state and its people. The right kind of thinking and acting, the right kind of cooperation should, in a comparatively short time, bring about the condition, at least to a large extent, that most of us would like to see. It is time that all of her public offices, as some of them are, should be filled by men who make real efforts and sacrifice to serve the people, instead of the people being sacrificed to serve the individual.

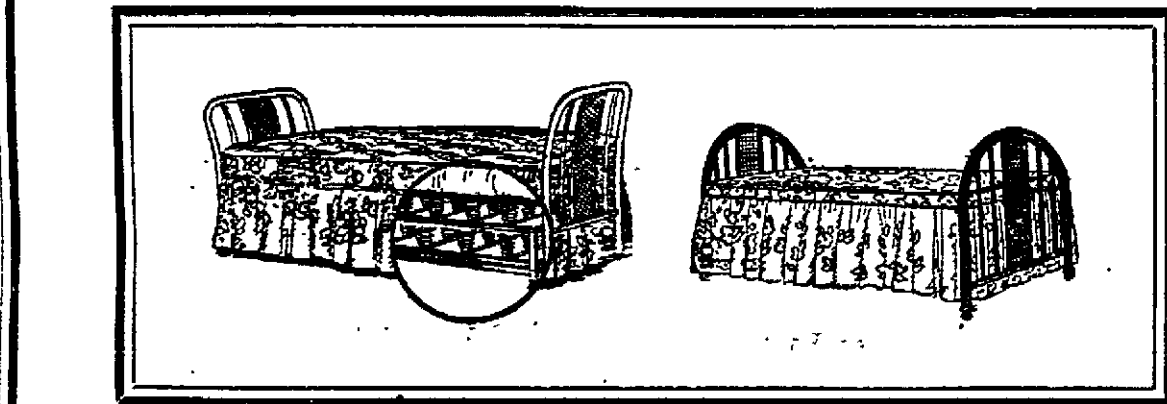

Notwithstanding the remarks made by certain individuals who think more of the vote-getting power of their remarks than of their accuracy, the people of Wisconsin have been affected not only by industry leaving the state, but more particularly because of new industry not coming in, he pointed out. Furthermore, industries in Wisconsin have grown from small beginnings and have grown, in some cases, to large proportions because of the efforts made by the management and those associated with them; the satisfactory quality of the goods furnished and, as has happened in some lines, because of very large markets for their products.

WORKING FOR WISCONSIN

Mr. Johnson explained that the Manufacturers' association was made up of successful men who are working faithfully and unselfishly for the state of Wisconsin. He said also that the Isaac Walton league in its conservation work, and the organizations that are providing playgrounds and recreational grounds for future generations, were doing fine work.

"Are we willing to cooperate with the men and women who are working that the lost prestige of Wisconsin be regained, if hard work and cooperation will accomplish it?" he asked. "Are we willing to work untiringly for more and better products of our farms and factories; for a greater state university and other universities and colleges, which are of increasing value to the people; for more and better opportunities for our children; for more and better facilities for caring for our sick and incapacitated, especially those who were ready to sacrifice their lives on land and sea in defense of our country; for more and better means of recreation for old and young; for more and better markets for Wisconsin products of

1,700 MEN PUT IN JOBS BY "Y" WORKERS BUREAU

Hard to Keep Record of Persons Given Employment by Agency

The Y. M. C. A. employment agency has placed 1,728 men in positions in the last four and a quarter years, according to figures compiled by C. L. Boynton, employment secretary of the local institution. Mr. Boynton estimates that he has received 3,500 applications for jobs since he took over the employment office here about four years ago. It is probable many more secured positions through the Y. M. C. A. employment bureau but did not report back to the office.

The only way we have of keeping record of those who find employment is to have applicants return and report to us when they have found work. Many do not do this. We suppose they appreciate the service that the Y. M. C. A. renders them, but simply forget to come back," Mr. Boynton said. "We keep a waiting list and as men apply for jobs we enter their names on it. Application blanks contain the person's name, description, the kind of work he desires, where he was last employed, his education, his age, his address, whether he is a member of the Y. M. C. A., the United States, whether he belongs to a labor union, the kind of work he can do well, and his address. Our services are at the command of the public, no matter whether they are members of the Y. M. C. A. At present, however, we are asking each applicant to make a deposit of 50 cents. We do this because we used to have considerable trouble in locating some of the applicants after we find employment for them. An applicant can come to us and receive a refund of his deposit at any time, whether he has received employment or not, or if he wishes to withdraw his application. We simply require the deposit to insure their remaining in the city while we are getting them a job, or to inform us when they have accepted a position."

YOUR QUESTION AND ITS ANSWER

QUESTION: I am bothered with stomach disorders. My doctor calls it gastralgia. Will your adjustments help me?

ANSWER: "Gastralgia" means "stomach" and "algia" means "pain in." Chiropractic is based on the fact that disease is the result of pressure upon the nerves. Further, we declare there is only one place in the body where such a pressure can exist, where the nerve trunks are given off from the spinal cord and pass between the segments which form the spinal column. Therefore, there must be a nerve pressure somewhere in the stomach region. Adjustments do and will correct the cause of your gastralgia.

Question: What would a Chiropractor do with a case of paralysis?

ANSWER: Paralysis is a shutting off of motor power. The Chiropractor adjusts the cause of the obstruction and the life current or power is restored.

Question: Is a patient subject to any pain taking Chiropractic spinal adjustments?

ANSWER: No, unless the chiropractor has not properly mastered the technique. Correct technique will not cause any undue discomfort. Prompted by a desire to give the public a chance to be correctly informed about Chiropractic, I have adopted a policy of making no charge for consultation and invite you to call for a friendly talk about my science and its application to your ailment.

TAKE CHILDREN FROM FARMER

Albert Wingate Is Denied Custody of Daughter and Small Nephew

Because he abused and neglected his 14-year-old sister Edna, and his 6-year-old nephew, Kenneth, Albert Wingate, town of Ellington farmer residing near Stephenville, was denied further custody of the children Monday afternoon in the juvenile branch of county court by Judge Fred V. Heinemann. It was testified in court that Wingate beat the children, and compelled the girl to work on the farm and at the same time expected her to take care of the house. An effort will be made to find homes in the town of Ellington for the children. No action was taken in court on the complaint of Frank Wingate, 60, father of Albert Wingate, that he was frequently abused by his son, with whom he resides, as the court has no jurisdiction in the matter.

YIELD OF PEAS BELOW AVERAGE

Bean Crop Will Be Affected by Dry Weather, Company Reports

Too much ran early in the season followed by lack of rain later on seriously affected the yield of peas this year according to a report from Hortonville Canning Co. The early rains flooded many fields and reduced production of the total acreage of early peas, while the intervening long dry spell retarded the development of the late crop.

A yield averaging about 70 per cent less than that of last year is reported by the Hortonville company. At the same time the acreage was only between 725 and 750 acres compared with about 1,000 acres last year. The company finished its pea pack Monday, and began canning beans on Tuesday.

About 300 acres of beans will be canned by the Hortonville company this year. Owing to dry weather, the outlook for the early bean crop is only fair, as many fields were seriously affected, but indications are that the late crop will be good, especially in view of recent rains, the company reports.

In the neighborhood of 120 women and from 50 to 60 men will be employed by the Hortonville Canning Co. Plans include a 24-hour run daily, with three shifts of women and two of men.

Internal Harmony

A statistical report issued recently by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), reveals a remarkable accord between management and employees of the Company. It shows complete agreement in 90% of the matters considered by the Joint General Committees, under the Industrial Relations Plan since its adoption in 1919.

It is noteworthy that in the few cases of disagreement, the differences were not over such vital subjects as wages, hours and working conditions, but related to subjects of minor importance.

This report is conclusive evidence of the internal harmony which manifests itself in many ways.

A feeling of good fellowship prevails among the employees, and between the employees and the management.

Wherever a group of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employees are working—at an oil well—in the laboratory—refinery—or service station—an atmosphere of good-will and friendliness is apparent.

This internal harmony is reflected in the attitude of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employees toward the people they serve. The harmony prevailing within is radiated without the organization. The consuming public receives the benefit in friendly, cheerful, competent service.

The comradeship that exists throughout the entire organization of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been definitely strengthened by such measures as the Industrial Relations and Stock Purchasing Plans.

The human, personal character of the organization is the inspiration back of the various measures which promote internal harmony.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) always has believed that mere magnitude of numbers does not alter the human characteristics and relationships of a group.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) works on the theory that a working force of 29,000 men and women should be bound together by the common ties of sympathy and friendship which unite a small family group. The size of the group heightens, rather than minimizes, the importance of the individual.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a huge organization, whose success depends upon the earnest effort of each of the 29,000 individuals who constitute the whole.

Through this harmonious and co-operative working of the organization as a whole, the management is achieving the goal set for the Company, i.e., to render such a broad and comprehensive service as to merit the respect and esteem of the thirty million people of the Middle West.

MERCHANTS FROM OUT OF CITY TO PAY $50 DAILY

Council Passes New Ordinance
Regulating License
Fee of Transients

Menasha—Upon motion of Alderman Anton Brezinski, an ordinance regulating the license fee of transient merchants and prepared and read by City Attorney Henry Fluzgibbon was adopted by a unanimous vote at the monthly meeting for the common council Tuesday evening. It provides for the securing of a state license for $25 and in addition therefor a city license of $50 a day for each day the merchant is engaged in business.

According to the monthly financial statement read by City Clerk J. F. DeCaro, the city had a total balance of $206,783.41 in all its funds at the close of business on July 31. The balance of the different funds on that date were: General fund, $20,477.23; water and light, $48,049.93; board of education, $101,576.02; industrial board, $337.45; library, $23,252.07; firemen's pension, $7,642.08; cemetery, $2,355.75; recreation, $2,442.63. A blueprint of the new Schimick plat in the Fourth ward was exhibited at the meeting and was referred by Mayor Remmel to the committee of the whole, street committee and city attorney to bring in its recommendation at an adjourned meeting to be held Monday evening, Aug. 9. The mayor urged the aldermen to go in to the matter thoroughly before adopting it in order to avoid future misunderstandings.

Alderman Brezinski announced that certain individuals who had claims against the city for damages had approached him to learn what had been done with them and particularly the claim of one resident who was about to move to another city. The city attorney said there were no claims against the city and announced that the serving of a notice did not constitute a legal claim.

A communication from Earl P. Sauter requesting the removal of an offensive sewer on his property which empties into Little Lake Butte des Morts was referred to the committee of the whole. The mayor suggested that the matter be taken up at once and the present condition remedied.

A recommendation of the fire and police commission relating to the purchase of new coats for the fire department was referred to the fire and city hall committee. A communication from the chief engineer of Milwaukee fire department which was in reply to a letter sent to him by Frank A. Trilling, secretary of the fire and police commission, said it would be entirely satisfactory for the city to send members of its fire department to its school of instruction and to attend fires. The commission recommended that each man be given a week's training. The recommendation was referred to the committee of the whole.

A communication from Mr. Trilling announced his resignation as a member of the fire and police commission, which is to take effect Friday, Aug. 27. His resignation was prompted by his contemplated removal from the city at that time.

Alderman Theodore Finch gave a report on the condition of the sanitary sewer in the Fourth and Fifth wards. The council adjourned until 7.30 Monday evening, Aug. 9.

A Powder You Will Prize

General Paint Co.

By Edna Wallace Hopper
We stars of the stage and the movies demand the utmost in a powder. Beauty is our stock in trade, and we always look our best. The greatest powder makers in the world supply their best to Hollywood. And they charge their highest prices. For years I paid $5.00 per box for my powder.
Now I have induced those powder makers to supply their best to you. And at ordinary prices. I do this by promising that I will urge all women to employ it. So toilet counters everywhere today offer Edna Wallace Hopper's Face Powder the very kind I use.
This Powder comes in two types. I use a heavy cold cream powder, because it clings and stays. That type costs $1.00 in square box. But the same powder comes in the light and fluffy type, and sells for 50c in round box. Both come in White, Flesh and Brunette shades.
Get a box at your toilet counter today. Learn to use it. You will see. See what it adds to your appearance. You have probably never used a powder that compares.

Chrysler Alone Offers Standardized Quality

An important new principle, assuring unsurpassed Chrysler performance to the buyer of any Chrysler Car

Walter P. Chrysler's principle of standardized quality manufacture is revolutionizing the buying of fine cars today.

For, at one step, it eliminates "purchaser's risk" . . . ends the buyer's doubts and fears as to quality . . . makes possible the purchase of either the lowest-priced or the highest-priced Chrysler with positive knowledge that the quality is equally assured and the value is supreme in its class.

Leading manufacturers have been striving for years to achieve this absolute evenness of quality.

An Unique Achievement But Chrysler alone has achieved it . . . translated it into fact by an extraordinarily complete coordination of engineering and manufacturing resources. Chrysler standardization of quality goes back to the sources of raw material; it governs the very minutest operation; it makes certain that every unit is produced with the finest precision standards under the most rigid inspection; it even moulds the manufacture of accessories.

Of course, Chrysler models to meet the four great quality markets differ in price in size of chassis, in richness of appointments, in speed and power—the model numbers representing miles per hour—but all are basically the same in rigid adherence to the same law of quality.

Advantages for the Buyer Obviously, cars bearing one name . . . built by one organization . . . under one all-embracing system of standardized quality manufacture . . . must be essentially fine to a degree beyond comparison with other cars made under ordinary methods.

This most important of Chrysler advantages insures the superior and uniform quality which is the foundation of superior performance, dependability, comfort, economy and long life in every Chrysler.

That each Chrysler, because of standardized quality, is far ahead of any car near its price . . . in quality of construction and quality of performance . . . you can easily verify by comparative demonstration. Hundreds of thousands of Chrysler owners know this superiority to be a fact. We invite you to prove these superiorities of standardized quality for yourself.

VANTY CASE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
In Harbor Gardens, Long Island in an elaborate bungalow, lived PERRY HEATH, an artist, and his wife, MYRA.

Myra, a cold, blond beauty and wealthy in her own right, was not in love with her husband, but she tolerated him. Heath for his part found amusement in his flirtations with other women, and despite an unruly shock of brown hair and owlish tortoise shell glasses which gave him a Bohemian look, they found him not unattractive.

At the time the story opens, the Heaths were entertaining two house guests:

LAWRENCE INMAN, a distant relative of Myra's, and aside from Perry, her only heir, and BUNNY MOORE, young, vivacious, golden-haired, an old friend of Myra's. Myra Heath was a peculiar woman. She had never used rouge or any other cosmetics in her life. She never dressed in colors—nothing but whites or grays or other neutral tones. She had a passion for collecting rare old bottles and her latest was an old whisky bottle, which she was quite proud of but which aroused her husband to scorn.

There is a growing intimacy between Inman and Myra Heath and Bunny and Perry, and at a bridge game Myra is so provoked at Bunny's apparent infatuation for her husband that she reproves her sharply.

CHAPTER II
"Good gracious! I don't want him!" said Bunny hopped off the chair and prouetted about the room.

"I know you don't," said Myra's voice grew sharper, "but you play with him, and he, poor fool, falls for you."

"Hoot, toot, Myra!" Heath cried in astonishment at this outburst, "let

"Distant cousin by the family records, but a very near cousin in actuality," Heath said, but with more the effect of amused chaffing than real accusation.

Myra flared up.

"He is my cousin and my heir. The family fortune follows the family record, and at my death—"

"Good Lord, Myra, you're not thinking of dying, are you? For Heaven's sake, don't spring these shocks so suddenly!"

"I don't know when I shall die, but I have certainly made my will in Larry's favor. To my mind that is just and right. It is far more appropriate that my father's money should revert to my father's relatives than to a man my father never saw, and would never have accepted as a son-in-law, had he been consulted."

"The woman with a serpent's tongue!" exclaimed Heath, really surprised at this outburst, so unlike his calm wife. "Is this a parlor entertainment you're giving us? Whose stunt is next? I've had enough of this number."

"Don't try to be funny. You're not clever enough for that. The idea of the Country Club wanting a man of your caliber for president! They little know your limitations."

"Well, Myra, you're getting on fine. Proceed, go right along."

"Yes, do," urged Bunny. "When you get all wrought up like that, you almost get a shade of color in your face!"

"Yes, a touch of angry brick red," Perry remarked, looking thoughtfully at Myra, as if at a picture.

As a matter of fact, she was, if anything, paler than usual, and her cold gray eyes glittered in her intense rage.

The whole scene was unprecedented. Never had Myra Heath shown this phase before.

Larry Inman was dumb with surprise. Bunny was joyously excited; and Heath himself was frankly puzzled.

"Sam Anderson is a thousand times better equipped for such a position than you are!" Myra went on. Anderson was another candidate.

"Anderson is a freak," put in Larry, but Myra snatched back the conversational ball.

"He isn't," she declared. "And anyway, he'd make a better president than Perry, whatever he may be! Imagine Perry presiding at a meeting of the board of governors!"

"Oh, I could swing it," Heath

"Nixy," Inman disagreed. "If not Anderson, then George Morton."

"Well, they're all Park men," Myra argued. "I don't care which of them is elected, if Perry doesn't run."

"I won't, I won't, I won't!" Heath reiterated. "Now, for Heaven's sake, drop that subject. Come on, let's all go to bed. A spot of Scotch, Larry?"

"Sure. This has been an exhausting conference. Gosh, what a warty concoction! You take this, I'll mix my own!"

Inman set back on the table the mild highball Heath had compounded for him, and, his eye lighting on the card in the picture frame, he took it down and set it up against the tall glass, so that "The Work of Perry Heath" seemed to refer to the Scotch and soda.

GREEN ISN'T A GENIUS BUT HE KNOWS LABOR

President of A. F. of L. Is Clear Thinker Unhindered by Worries

BY CHARLES F. STEWART

Washington — With nearly everybody else of consequence at the seashore, in the mountains or taking life easily in some other cool spot, "I find Washington a desirable place in which to work during the mid-summer months," observes President William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

It was 99.5, too, by the weather bureau's thermometer, the day Green made this remark, and unofficial instruments were away over 100.

Nevertheless, the A. F. of L. head really did look cool and comfortable. The truth is that William Green is a calm, even tempered individual who doesn't let little things like weather get on his nerves.

Green looks the part of a president of the A. F. of L. He looks it even more than Samuel Gompers did.

Gompers looked like a great man up—a statesman. He lacked stature, but there was power in his face, and genius. So far as appearances were concerned, he might have been president of anything—a railroad or the United States Steel Corporation or the United States itself. But there was little about his looks to suggest that he ever had, worked with his hands, though of course he had.

Green suggests the practical working man—a high type but it doesn't strain the imagination to visualize him as a miner, and right on the job, in a real mine.

Gompers obviously was conscious of his greatness. It wasn't conceit. He was intellectually away above that. He appraised himself, however, at what he was worth. You knew, in conversation with him, that you were talking to a potentate.

Green is wholly unassuming. He sits at his desk in his shirt sleeves, anybody can get in to see him who has even a moderately good excuse, and if you didn't know it in advance, you'd never guess who and what he is, he's so completely free from any trace of "side."

Gompers was brilliant. Green is substantial. He has a chunky, powerful figure, of medium height. His face is square and resolute. It's serious—not much inclined to smile. Its owners whole make-up hints at the sacrifice of the ornamental in the interests of strength.

As president of the A. F. of L., Green has all the marks of a man who knows his job from the ground up.

He's a smooth-running machine—efficient and through, but unhurried.

His composure of manner is his striking external characteristic.

He talks readily. He doesn't scintillate, as Gompers did, but he's familiar with the labor situation, in all its ins and outs. When he's asked a question concerning it, he doesn't have to stop and think. He's done his thinking previously and can answer right off the reel.

It's refreshing in a city of politicians, where the almost universal tendency is to hedge and trim, to find a man of convictions, who speaks straight out.

Recording and Reproduction

UNDER the old mechanical method of recording, it was possible to record sound from 128 vibrations per second (low frequency) to 2,000 vibrations per second (high frequency). Under the old mechanical method of reproduction, it was possible to reproduce sound from 250 vib. per second (low freq.) to 6,000 vib. per second (high freq.). The entire musical scale runs from 16 vib. per second (low freq.) to 10,000 vib. per second (high freq.), and the range of audibility from 16 vib. (low) to 21,000 vib. (high).

Therefore, under the old methods of recording and reproduction, physical limitations made it impossible to either record or reproduce the entire scale of music.

The new Brunswick electrical "Light-Ray" recording method now gives the recorder unlimited opportunity. Not only can the entire musical scale be recorded, but as well, all audible sound. Recording is no longer limited physically, and the increased musical value of these new records is apparent to everyone. The new electrical reproducing method (Brunswick Panatone) also makes it possible now to reproduce all the music of the entire musical scale, and in fact all audible sound.

COOLIDGE SHIP POLICY ANGERS FLEET BOARD

Gives Away Ship Lines if They Earn Profit—Keeps Them if They Don't

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Washington—No wonder the government finds it notoriously difficult to operate a ship line. It is operating at a hopeless loss, the board hangs onto it and keeps the ships running, the government ponying up the money to meet the deficit. If a line is paying, the board immediately becomes anxious to sell it as soon as it can, for pretty much anything it can get.

If a line looks as if it might pay before long, the board wants to sell that, too, and is willing to make the terms so reasonable that the purchaser will find the transaction a paying one in the long run, even if it does take him a few months to begin making a margin of profit.

UNBUSINESSLIKE A business man who sold all his dividend-paying stock far below their market value and boarded those on which he was being regularly assessed would hardly expect to grow rich.

However, such is the government's policy with its merchant ships. The explanation, of course, is that President Coolidge represents a school of thought which holds that a government should engage in no commercial ventures, or being so engaged, should get out of it as speedily as possible and at almost any cost.

It simply cannot sell vessels that promise to cost a private company money to operate, even as a gift. It stands some chance of disposing of lines which pay or promise to pay soon, but prospective purchasers, always how desperately anxious to sell, are more moderate in their bids.

NEW TO THEM This policy of keeping what is worse than worthless and getting rid of it at a sacrifice, of what yields handsome returns, is one which the president has had some difficulty in instilling into the minds of the men at the head of the governmentally owned merchant marine.

The Shipping Board balked at first. Finally, however, by appointing new and more manageable members, when old members' terms expired, he got a working majority on the board with Chairman T. V. O'Connor at its head.

Vice-Chairman Plummer and Admiral Benson, minority members, continue to protest with all their might, but are voted down now, every time.

BOARD WAS STALLED With the Shipping Board under administration control, trouble developed with the president of the Emergency meet Corporation. The board is supposed to shape board policies, the corporation to be in charge of actual operations. Still, the board has to work through the corporation. With a recalcitrant corporation head, the board was stalled.

Admiral Palmer was corporation president at the time. The board had a hard time getting rid of him, but succeeded at last. Captain Crowley, who followed, was required to resign when he was appointed.

HELL BE GOOD Now Brig. Gen. Albert C. Dalton has the post, and presumably he knows which side his bread is buttered on and will eat it that way. Illustrative of the administration's policy.

Last April the Shipping Board sold to the Robert Dollar Company five vessels known as the "President Ships," which had cost an average of $6,357,000 each, at $4,500,000—2.5 per cent cash down—for the five. On their 14 voyages, just preceding the day of the sale, this line had earned $294,494 net profit.

This is not, however, to be interpreted as a ship subsidy, for Congress voted overwhelmingly against that.

Her Own Way. A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

IRISH BLOOD In a moment all was confusion. Sterns the manager, and Sellers, the house detective were immediately on the spot.

Horton had managed to plant one good blow in Jimmie's face, but he had caught his tooth in his lip and he was a mess in a bright red stuffy shirt as the detective helped him up.

Sterns tried to push Jimmie and me into his office, but the moment he laid his hand on me, Jimmie's fighting blood was up. He would have none of it. He hauled off and looked so fierce that the manager backed down.

"Young man," he said, "you can't make a rough house here. You get out and you too, young woman. You go with him. I've had quite enough trouble with you ever since you've been here. You don't seem to remember that I took you in when you were on your uppers."

"Cut it. Cut it out," said Jimmie with his fists clenched in the manager's face as he opened his face to say more. "You can make up your mind I'll be glad to get out of this blasted dump. Come on, Judy."

We started for the hat-checking counter, when the manager bellowed: "Here, I want your name and address, young man. And, didn't I hear you call this young woman by some other name than the one she gave us?"

Jimmie looked at me in consternation. He did not know whether he had spilled the beans or not. At the sight of my face he recovered and blurted out:

"You go to hell, will you?" With this he turned and followed me to the hat rack.

"Get your hat and coat quickly, Judy. Let's get out of this. I guess we've picked up a devil of a rumus enough to last these people for some time."

Mamie had started forward as she saw me coming and she was helping me on with my coat.

"Say, Julie, is that your gentleman friend?"

"No dear, I'll introduce him to you if you like. He's a nice chap, Miss Riley, this is an old friend of mine from home, Jimmie Costello. I guess you know enough about what's just happened to know that we're not very welcome around here. We're going out to have some dinner now."

Mamie understood immediately. She knew I didn't want Jimmie Costello or anyone else to know that I was a friendless in the city of Chicago. She neglected a man who wanted his hat and was asking if he couldn't get a little service while she talked to Jimmie and me.

"Let him take you out to our apartment when you've finished your dinner and I'll come home as soon as I can."

TWO APPLETON MEN QUALIFY IN STATE GOLF MEET

WESCO GETS 79 TO WIN PLACE WITH CHAMPION

Doc O'Keefe Also May Make Grade in Playoff of Nine Men With 80 Scores

Two Appleton golfers, including Ken Dickinson, defending title, were assured places in the championship meet, now underway in Milwaukee, by their work in the qualifying round Tuesday, and a third will have a chance to play in the flight in a playoff of nine players tied for 26th place. Only the low 32 golfers qualify for the first round of match play.

BULLETIN

Milwaukee—(P)—Ned Allis of Milwaukee and Buster Bock of Sheboygan, tee off at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in the first match of the elimination rounds of the annual Wisconsin Amateur Golf association tournament being played at Ozaukee country club.

This match is the battle of the day, in which anything can happen. Bock came in Tuesday with a 78, although he had an eight on the fifteenth. He scattered strokes all over the fairway on that hole, but otherwise played good golf.

Allis, the medalist of the tournament, promises to be among the semifinalists on the strength of the golf he has been playing this season.

Two rounds will be played Wednesday, the first eighteen in the morning and the second in the afternoon. The draw for the first round follows:

E. P. Allis vs. E. C. Bock; R. T. Maichos vs. D. A. Matteson; W. J. Gernon vs. Noel Miller; M. E. Manchester vs. John Verbois; CLYDE PISHION vs. P. C. WESCO; John B. Stevens vs. A. Bauman; Philip R. Adler vs. J. L. Pring; K. S. DICKINSON vs. PHIL SANBORN; Len Fous vs. Harry A. Worth; Irving Peterson vs. Richard Landauer; Billy Sixty vs. Henry Kaiser; Walter Staffeldt vs. Vance Gall; Eddie Hayden vs. George Madushaw; John A. Russell vs. R. H. Fletcher; Carl L. Mueller vs. C. C. Allen; Al Fous vs. Otto Lehman.

Beside Dickinson, P. C. WESCO, Butte Des Morts club, runner-up in flight B in the N. E. W. G. A. tourney held here two weeks ago, made the grade to the championship night and Dr. W. E. O'Keefe, Butte des Morts, flight C champ of northeastern Wisconsin, was tied for the 26th place, with a chance to get in the flight in the playoff.

Dickinson shot a 74, to tie for second low score. Ned Allis, Milwaukee, a seven-time state champ, being medalist with a 73. Dickinson missed a 30-foot putt on the last green to keep him from tying for medal honors with a 73.

Dickinson, shooting with Morgan Manchester, 1925 runner-up, got a 38-36, showing consistent shooting all the way and never being in any trouble that looked serious. Manchester went bad on the first nine, getting a 41, but he came back in 36, one over par, for a 77 and an easy place. Buster Bock of Sheboygan, 1925 northeastern Wisconsin champ, and runner-up this year, got a 34-41-75 to qualify.

Wesco, turned in the surprise of the day for Appleton golfers when he shot a neat 79 to make the grade. O'Keefe got an 80 to tie for the 26th with eight other men, two of whom must drop out in the playoff. Prospects favor O'Keefe's remaining in the championship flight unless his golfing falls off from the standard he set for himself Tuesday.

Numerous scores just under the 80 mark and a bunch of even of 80's completed the lowest medal round in the history of the tournament. With so much congestion in the low brackets, some of the 80's are forced into the President flight.

Here's Dickinson's qualifying card:

Out 4 5 4 3 3 4 4 3-35
In 4 4 4 3 3 3 4 4-35-70

Dickinson—
Out 4 5 6 3 4 3 5 3-38
In 4 4 4 3 3 3 4 4-36-74

Those who are certain of places in the championship flight are:

NED ALLIS, Milwaukee, C. C. 73.
KEN DICKINSON, APPLETON, 74.
Len Fous, Bay View, 74.
Al Fous, Bay View, 77.
W. S. Gernon, Maple Bluff, 75.

BREWS HAND GAME TO INDIANS; KERNELS WIN

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Brewers were all dressed up Tuesday and had a place to go, but when Harry Ströhm missed connections on Wallie Reig's grounder in the seventh with the bases loaded, a rather listless ball game, but as important as any in the standings, had gone over the hill. The final tabulation favored the Dushmen, 9 to 4.

MISSOURI HAS THREE ICE-KEETERS

Columbia, Mo. — These three University of Missouri athletes are following in the footsteps of the well known and much-talked-about Harold "Red" Grange, the Wheaton, Ill. football flash and icetoter extraordinaire.

The three—Ted O'Sullivan, Don Swafford and Doss Richardson—are killing a pair of birds with one ice pick. For, besides picking up a little loose change during the summer vacation, they are also getting into the proverbial "pink" for the strenuous football campaign just around the corner.

Do the boys like their jobs? They do. Just hearken to what they think about earthing blocks of ice, while some of their pals are enjoying the sea breezes at a nice, little summer resort.

"It's a great life," says Ted O'Sullivan, captain-elect of the basketball team for next season. "It puts you in splendid condition for athletics." O'Sullivan has been on the ice wagon during four summer vacations.

"It's not so worse." This from Doss Richardson, track star and guard on the gridiron.

"Ditto," exclaims Don Swafford, captain-elect of the 1927 baseball outfit.

And the three grab their tongs, hoist the frozen stuff. It's a great life!

POSTMASTERS TAKE 2 IN KIMBERLY LEAGUE

Kimberly—Kimberly Postmasters took two straight games from the Clubhouse Boosters Monday evening in the Kimberly Twilight Softball league by scores of 7-4 and 16-4. The Postmasters were always in the lead in both games and walked away with the second game when they scored five runs in the fifth inning, four in the sixth, and five in the seventh. Harp scored two of the Postmasters runs in the first game while Kang and Courchane did the scoring for the Boosters. In the second game Briggs and Harp got three hits and came in with three runs apiece for the Postmasters, and Pennington got three hits and two runs for the clubhouse Boosters. Wednesday evening Van Thulis Bakers play Winkles Rounders.

French Menace Threat In Davis Trophy Play

BY ART CARLSON
America has won the Davis cup, emblematic of the tennis championship of the world, six straight seasons, or ever since the lanky Bill Tilden first became this country's biggest figure in the game.

During that span Uncle Sammy's boys have dropped just two matches in 30. Patterson and Wood of Australia whipped Tilden and Richards in the doubles in 1922, while Jimmy Anderson, another Antipodean, beat Johnston the following year.

In the four other annual clashes, America has scored shutouts, two on Australia and once each against Japan and France. In short, most of the challenge rounds have been nothing more than a rout for the Americans.

This year, however, things look different. America's representatives are quite apt to find a real tussle on their hands when they defend their honors at the Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, early in September. Such an event is likely providing the interzone play terminates as expected.

Across the Atlantic there again looms a French menace, just as it did a year ago. Only this time it's a much larger one. For along with Lacoste, Borotra and Brugnon will also come Henri Cochet. Cochet may furnish the punch needed to overthrow the Americans.

You've heard a great deal of the playing ability of Lacoste and Borotra during the last two seasons. In the Davis cup battles a year ago, both had the talented Tilden on the brink of defeat, only to have a characteristic Tilden rally to beat them. Lacoste and Borotra were hailed as future greats following those stirring exhibitions.

But over in sunny France (as the poets say) many consider Cochet an even better bet. Cochet has been playing sensational tennis all season. He's been stepping along fast, showing improvement each time out, and is a feared entry in any competitive jamboree.

With three such youthful stars as Lacoste, Borotra and Cochet (not to mention the capable Brugnon) representing France, America can well feel slightly alarmed regarding the retention of the Davis trophy.

For if France reaches the challenge round (and nothing short of a startling upheaval of the dope can keep her out) Tilden, Richards, Johnston, Williams et al, are certain to find the going much tougher than they have run up against in the last few seasons.

The French entrants, 'outside of Brugnon, are improving every year, reaching a higher standard of play with each succeeding campaign. The lads wearing the colors of this country aren't getting any better in fact they seem to be gradually slipping.

Williams has been playing top-notch tennis since 1913, Johnston has been rated with the premier pastimes since 1916; Tilden since 1919 and Richards since 1921. It's no wonder then if the American representatives are going back. They can't hold to the exacting pace for ever.

I wouldn't be surprised if some of the younger crop of players like Eddie Chandler, Alfred Chapin and George Lott carry the destinies of this country in the international classic within another year or two. A change is bound to come sooner or later. New and younger blood will shortly be needed.

Six successive world titles is something to boast about. They cover a long reign in these days when champions, whether individuals or group, don't remain on top very long.

Of course, America's stars may once again rise to the occasion and crush another challenger. But I wouldn't be startled if the present Davis cup regime were stopped this season with the French turning a trick they failed to put over last year.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Unless there is a change in the program at the last minute, the Valley leaguers will give a hand in the Chief Williams benefit day at the Bay on Aug. 14. An all star team from the other clubs will be selected to cross bats with the Green Sox and the Chief will reap the financial harvest.

Moguls of the Valley loop are holding their monthly session Wednesday night in Appleton at the Conway hotel. President PreFontaine will be in the chair. It should be a peaceful session as all of the spokes in the wheel are functioning right and there are no protested games to be ironed out.

Rex Enright, Notre Dame backfielder, whom Walter Eckersall placed on his 1925 All Western team, has signed a contract to play with the Green Bay Packers. Enright made a splendid record on the gridiron for Rockne & Co. and there is no doubt but that he will be a valuable addition to the Bay Blues.

The crop of catchers in the Valley loop is, on the whole, much better than any other position. Every club in the circuit boasts of a first class paddy and the experts who attempt to pick 'all league' teams this season are going to have a job on their hands naming the leading backstopper.

A busy winter of fistic encounters is being planned in Valley if any confidence can be placed on the talk heard along 'tin-ear' row. Green Bay and Oshkosh will stage shows at monthly intervals and it is understood that Appleton and Fond du Lac will be the scene of several pugilistic affairs.

UNKNOWN NEAR LEADERS IN BAT RACE IN MAJORS

Herman and Bressler Show Heels to Hornsby; Fothergill, Falk in A. L.

There is much variety to the batting averages of the major leagues this year. It has added zest to the hectic battle for the swat crown.

Instead of Rogers Hornsby being out in front in the National, almost alone, we find two comparative unknowns, Rube Bressler and Babe Herman, among leading contenders.

In the American League, Bob Fothergill and Bib Falk are more than making things interesting for Champion Harry Hellmann and ambitious Babe Ruth.

Unquestionably Bib Falk is the sensation of the year from a batting standpoint. However, he has gone about his work in such a quiet manner, that his sterling performance at the bat has failed to receive the high consideration it deserves.

Likewise, Rube Bressler, who was once a pitcher for Connie Mack, has gone about his work of leading the National without any of the "hooray" stuff and has been but little press-agented.

It is a rather strange coincidence that Bressler and Falk began their careers as pitchers. Both early showed a disposition to hit that won them berths as regulars.

During the past month I have been deluged with inquiries from fans, players, scribes and minor league presidents as to my opinion on the subject. After giving the play due consideration I reached a decision. Then I took it up with other umpires. I might add that some of the umpires conferred with me do not take kindly to the decision that must be arrived at if the rule is strictly adhered to. Here is the play:

There are runners on second and third and one man out. The batsman hits safely to left field.

The runner on third easily scores on the play.

The runner on second decides that he can also score and breaks for the plate.

The left fielder makes an accurate throw home and the runner trying to score from second is retired on a very close decision. This makes the second out of the inning.

In the meantime, the batsman has reached second base on the hit. Unfortunately for all concerned he failed to touch first base on his way to second.

The ball is thrown to first base by the catcher and the runner standing on second is called out by the umpire for having failed to touch first base on route.

Now for the momentous question. Does the runner from third, who had crossed the plate on the batsman's drive to left, score?

Nine times out of ten the immediate answer is, "Of course the runner from third scores." But he doesn't.

While it seems a crime to allow the scoring of the runner from third, who had safely crossed the plate before the second out of the inning, a specific interpretation of the rule governing the play, prevents it.

The start of the play is the inception of the pitch, the delivering of the

Evans Explains Diamond's Most Discussed Freak Play

BY BILLY EVANS
Baseball abounds in freak plays. That is one of the most interesting features of the sport. It thrives on uncertainty.

Recently, in a minor league game, a most unusual play came up that is the talk of the baseball world. I doubt if any diamond situation has been more discussed.

During the past month I have been deluged with inquiries from fans, players, scribes and minor league presidents as to my opinion on the subject. After giving the play due consideration I reached a decision. Then I took it up with other umpires. I might add that some of the umpires conferred with me do not take kindly to the decision that must be arrived at if the rule is strictly adhered to. Here is the play:

There are runners on second and third and one man out. The batsman hits safely to left field.

The runner on third easily scores on the play.

The runner on second decides that he can also score and breaks for the plate.

The left fielder makes an accurate throw home and the runner trying to score from second is retired on a very close decision. This makes the second out of the inning.

In the meantime, the batsman has reached second base on the hit. Unfortunately for all concerned he failed to touch first base on his way to second.

The ball is thrown to first base by the catcher and the runner standing on second is called out by the umpire for having failed to touch first base on route.

Now for the momentous question. Does the runner from third, who had crossed the plate on the batsman's drive to left, score?

Nine times out of ten the immediate answer is, "Of course the runner from third scores." But he doesn't.

While it seems a crime to allow the scoring of the runner from third, who had safely crossed the plate before the second out of the inning, a specific interpretation of the rule governing the play, prevents it.

The start of the play is the inception of the pitch, the delivering of the ball to the batsman, who apparently hits safely to left field.

The rule governing the play, says that no runs can score on any play in which the batsman fails to reach first base for the third out of the inning.

The runner on third scored on the batsman's hit to left field. The batsman by his failure to touch first base on his way to second, never actually became the occupant of the base and therefore is considered as never having reached it.

When the ball is thrown to first base, the batsman is retired for the play out of the inning on a play in which he failed to reach first base because of his negligence in not touching it.

Since a run cannot score on any such play, the tally apparently scored by the runner from third is rendered void.

It strikes me as a particular hardship not to allow the run, but rules are rules and to do otherwise would invite a protest that would be sustained.

Yet, I know of one of the best umpires of the game who says: "If the play ever comes up with me, I am going to allow the run and start something that will at least cause plenty of gossip and possibly a change in the rule."

What do you think about it?

FORMER FEATHER CHAMP GOES GOOD AS LIGHTIE

New York—(P)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan who dropped the featherweight boxing crown several weeks ago has made an impressive debut as lightweight at the expense of an injured left hand.

Sometime during his contest with Tommy Cello of Los Angeles at the Queensboro stadium Tuesday night Kaplan's left hand found a hard spot and will have to be X-rayed before the extent of the damage is known. He won almost every round of the ten round contest and had his opponent near a knockout in the eighth.

LUCKY STRIKES are distinctively different. Why? "IT'S TOASTED."

But "IT'S TOASTED" is more than a ready answer. In two words it condenses volumes of technical description. It represents added expense in extra machinery, extra labor.

It is a super-process, an addition to the choosing of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended.

In three ways it lifts LUCKY STRIKES out of the ordinary. Toasting for 45 minutes (1) removes the "bite" and harshness, (2) develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Then (3) sudden chilling seals the moist fragrance in, keeping LUCKY STRIKES ever fresh.

These three things account for the growing millions who prefer LUCKY STRIKES.

HELPFUL HINTS TO GOLFING STARS

Cecil Leitch—GREATEST FAULT IN PUTTING
In the event there are any players who, like myself, experience times on the green when they are hitting the ball here, there and everywhere, I must point out what I have in my own case found to be the cause. This temporary paralysis is caused by the tightening of the muscles of the wrists and forearms, with the result that the ball is stabbed by means of a stiff jerk of the arms. The wrists must be allowed freedom and the club must not be gripped too firmly for putting, but those who are suffering from an attack of putting paralysis should exaggerate the looseness of the grip and wrists.

There is one other common fault in putting to which I must refer, and that is the tendency to turn the right hand over at the moment of impact. This action is to be avoided at all costs on the green, as it applies a slight pull to the ball at the end of its journey.

Cecil Leitch When suffering from disappointing results of this nature it is well to see what position the head of the putter is in at the end of the stroke. The toe of the club will generally be found to be pointing in the direction of the hole instead of being at right angles to it.

ALL-CITY TENNIS MEET OF Y. M. C. A. TO START MONDAY

Any Net Player Over 18,
Member or Not, Eligible for Citywide Net Battles

All-city tennis champions will be selected next week in the annual Y. M. C. A. tennis tournament which will open Monday at the association courts. Registrations must be made this week so that pairings for the first round may be completed by next Monday, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director, who will conduct the tourney.

All men in the city over 18 years of age, whether they are members of the Y. M. C. A. or not are eligible to enter. The tournament will be conducted either along elimination play or round-robin, depending upon the number of entries. In the latter system, each player receives the opportunity to play all other participants. Winners are based upon percentage gained in the various tilts. The tournament will continue about two weeks and will serve as a preliminary for the state Y. M. C. A. meet the latter part of August, in which winners of the local tournament will enter.

Mr. Jensen has been corresponding with Wausau and Waupaca in regard to tennis matches between those cities and the Appleton Y. M. C. A. teams. He expects to get in touch with other cities in the neighborhood so that local teams may both travel and play at home.

INDIANS DROP 2 AS YANKEES WIN

Tribe, 10 Games Behind, in Last Stand for A. L.
Teams; Reds, Bucs Close

Tris Speaker and his Cleveland Indians, ten games behind, but apparently the only team in the American League able to give the New York Yankees a battle, Wednesday made a last stand on their home grounds. The prospect was not bright, from a Cleveland standpoint, for Tuesday the Yankees slugged out a victory over the White Sox, 7 to 6, while Boston downed the Indians twice, 5 to 7 and 2 to 0.

The Yankees needed plenty of hitting to win for their pitching and fielding were atrocious. Earl Combs shot out five blows in five appearances, two of them dour, and Tony Lazzeri made his fourteenth home run of the year with two on base.

Cleveland's defeats were due to heavy hitting by Boston in the first contest and excellent pitching by Zahniser, who allowed only five hits. In the second, George Burns of Cleveland recorded three doubles in the first contest and one in the second.

Detroit put over three runs in the ninth and one in the tenth to humble the Athletics, 4 to 3, with Al Simmons of the Mackmen hitting his thirteenth circuit blow of the season. Stoner and Dausse held Philadelphia to six safeties.

Cincinnati kept Pittsburgh well in sight in the National loop by taking both sides of a double bill from the Boston Braves, 1 to 0, and 3 to 2. Carl Mays and Adolfo Luque pitching glittered ball, the submarine hurler granting only five hits, while Luque allowed eight, but kept them scattered.

Pittsburgh overwhelmed the Phillies, 14, to 2, gaining an even break in the series. Pie Traynor delivered four of his teams 22 base hits.

PRO FOOTBALL COMES TO FRONT IN BOSTON

Professional football is stretching out in new directions for popularity. Boston is to have a pro football team this year. Boston for years has been a great center for the college grid game. It is the home of Harvard and Boston College, both institutions having thousands of supporters.

Since Boston for years has been a stronghold for the college game, the professionals may find the going tougher there than in other cities, where the pro brand of football has become popular.

The promoters are taking the innovation seriously and have already engaged Herb Treat and Ralph Gilroy, two former Princeton stars, to coach the team.

It is planned to recruit the team largely from Boston and vicinity in order to arouse more civic pride in the clever.

I am of the opinion that professional football has come to stay. It wouldn't surprise me, if within five years, the owners of the various major league baseball franchises got back of the pro game.

That would put it over big, as proper supervision is all it lacks.

COLOR HELPS WALTER HAGEN'S RISE TO TOP

Walter Hagen will always continue to be one of the biggest figures in the golfing world because he is colorful.

While Hagen failed to win either the British or American open, he was strictly in the running in both events, finishing inside the money.

Just when the golfing world was paying homage to Bobby Jones for winning the two greatest golfing titles, Hagen decided it was time for him to break into the headlines. Walter well realizes the value of publicity.

Starting with 67-65-132 for the first two rounds of the Eastern open championship, Hagen broke the world's record for medal play for 36 holes on a championship 6500-yard course.

After this record-breaking feat he set out to better Emmett French's mark of 274 a world record for 72 hole medal play.

A rather ordinary 74 in his third round hurt. He needed a 65 in his final trip to equal the mark but fell one stroke shy finishing with a 275.

Yes! Walter Hagen is a rather colorful figure in golf. He insists on it.

JACK IS HAVING LOTS OF TROUBLE

Heavy King, Through With Kearns, Finds Other
Stumbling Blocks in Way

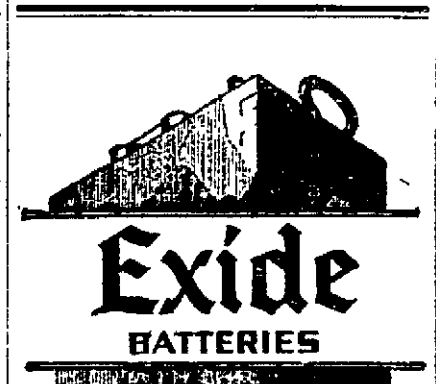

New York—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion and Jack Kearns who piloted him to the title no longer have an agreement but the first mentioned Jack has other troubles.

The famous contract expired Tuesday with the champion on his way to New York to sign his own papers for a 15-round fight with Gene Tunney at the Yankee Stadium Sept. 16. But before there can be a bout in New York between them the license committee of the state athletic commission must declare them eligible. A ruling is expected Tuesday.

While in the St. Louis station the champion was served with a subpoena directing him to appear in superior court Aug. 13 to show why he should not be restrained from fighting until he goes through with a contract he is alleged to have made with the Chicago Coliseum club.

At the same time B. C. Clements, Chicago promoter, announced that the $300,000 due the champion Tuesday under his alleged agreement to meet Harry Wills, will be forthcoming in the form of a cashier's check. This is the first installment of a $500,000 guarantee, according to Clements and may be sent to Dempsey by messenger.

Both Dempsey and his new manager, Gene Normandy, denied the existence of any contract such as that mentioned in the subpoena.

The classy Bus Drivers took their ninth straight win in the 1926 Traction Co. Softball league Tuesday afternoon at Fourth ward diamond, whipping the Office crew, 10-5.

The loss put the Office men alone in the cellar after holding that position jointly with the Railways. The second, third and fourth place squads are within a fraction over a game from each other.

A. Kranzuch, McGuire and Peotter were the stars for the Chauffeurs, while McGuire and Burmeister pounded the pill hard for the losers. Wednesday afternoon the Railway and Gas-Power squads battle for second place, weather permitting. The Busmen scored five times in the first frame and after that were never in danger. Skall allowed only six hits while his rival was clouted for twelve. The losers had seven errors to three for the winners.

TWO FACING FORGERY CHARGES ON 'AUG. 19

Trial of Edwin Feldmeyer, route 6, Appleton, and Myron Baum, Eagle River, Monday afternoon was set for 10 o'clock Thursday morning, Aug. 19, in municipal court. Evidence was taken in court on charges that the two forged the name of Nick Paltzer to a check made payable to Frank Nuss and cashed at Snider's restaurant, but the two, waived preliminary examination on another charge of forgery and a third charge that they stole two 5-gallon cans and five gallons of gasoline from the farm of Paltzer.
